Total Premium	$167.73

Other Payment Option[5]
Annual	$1,863.72

Illustrated values may vary slightly due to rounding.

[1] Dividends are not guaranteed and must be approved annually by the New York Life Insurance Company Board of Directors. Premiums are still required to keep the policy in force whether dividends are sufficient to offset them or not.

[2] Home Care is included in the Maximum Monthly Benefit at 100%.

[3] The coinsurance amount is applicable each calendar month.

[4] The dollar deductible selected above will increase each year to reflect the inflation protection mechanism you have chosen and only needs to be satisfied once per lifetime of the policy.

[5] By paying premiums on a basis more frequently than annually, the total premium paid during one year's time will be greater than if the premium were paid annually.

Dividend Illustration

Applicant Information: Valued Client

Dividend eligibility is a distinct advantage of purchasing from a mutual insurer like New York Life. When you purchase a participating long-term care insurance policy, you pay premiums for a policy which provides, according to its terms and conditions, reimbursement of eligible long-term care expenses. After paying claims, expenses, other liabilities, and funding the reserves used to provide for future benefits, a portion of the remaining excess premiums may be distributed back to the policy owners in the form of a dividend. This dividend is applied to the premium due for this policy. If the dividend exceeds the premium due, any excess dividend will be applied to future premiums. Any dividend that has not been applied to premiums due when the policy is terminated will be paid to the policy owner or their beneficiary.

Please see About This Product at the end of this illustration for important disclosures regarding the dividend and this illustration.

Protecting Your Policy With An Inflation Option

Applicant Information: Valued Client

Just like most other goods and services, the cost of long-term care services will increase over time. Therefore, inflation protection can be an important part of your policy. This illustration compares a policy's benefits with and without CPI-U Purchase Options inflation protection option.

Internal Rate of Return (IRR) Illustration

Applicant Information: Valued Client

The IRR Illustration shows what the after tax rate of return would be for premiums put into the policy to equal the amount of claim benefit you are getting for long-term care insurance. If you are considering setting aside other money for this purpose, the illustration can demonstrate what return would be necessary to achieve the same results for the amount of benefit[1].

Product Details

Please refer to the Policy for exact benefit descriptions. If any discrepancies, the policy language will govern.

Policy Design – Core Benefits

Maximum Monthly Benefit
The maximum dollar amount of benefit we will pay in a given calendar month under this policy. This includes facility and home and community based care.

Policy Lifetime Maximum
The maximum dollar amount of benefit we will pay over your lifetime under this policy.

Dollar Deductible
The amount of Qualified Long-Term Care Services for which you are responsible before New York Life will reimburse you for Qualified Long-Term Care Services under the policy. The deductible only needs to be satisfied once per lifetime of the policy.

Coinsurance
The percentage of incurred Qualified Long-Term Care Services for which you are responsible after you have satisfied the applicable dollar deductible. The coinsurance amount is applicable each calendar month.

Policy Design – Riders[1]

Inflation Protection
Inflation protection is a tool that helps your policy retain or even grow its value over time. New York Life offers two types of inflation protection mechanisms:

- Increasing premium option offers benefit increases with moderate premium increases based on the client's attained age.
- Front-loaded inflation protection options provide increases in policy benefits each year, with premiums that do not change due to those increases.[2]

Shared Pools Rider
The rider allows access to the Policy Lifetime Maximum benefit of their partner to pay claims after the individual pool is exhausted. Partners must purchase identical policies.

Nonforfeiture Benefit Rider
The Nonforfeiture Benefit Rider gives a shortened benefit period if a policy lapses after it has been in force for at least three years.

Benefits Included in Every Policy[3]

Care Plan Benefit provides access to a local experienced care planner to work with you to develop a plan of care. Insureds do not need to satisfy their dollar deductible for access to the care planner.

Caregiver Relief provides temporary relief to a caregiver, without satisfying the dollar deductible.

In-Home Support Equipment Benefit pays for the purchase or rental of devices that will enable you to remain at home for your care. Insureds do not need to satisfy their dollar deductible to qualify for this benefit.

International Coverage Benefit can help pay for care outside the United States.

Alternate Plan of Care allows you to request alternative benefits or services generally not covered by the policy.

Hospice Care Benefit pays for care in a hospice facility or for hospice services received in your home without satisfying the dollar deductible should you have a shortened life expectancy.

Waiver of Premium covers your premium payments after the dollar deductible has been satisfied and qualifying benefits are being received.

Return of Premium to Age 65 returns all premiums, less benefits and dividends paid or payable, to your beneficiary or estate upon your death prior to age 65.

About This Product

This Proposal explains the important features of New York Life Insurance Company's (New York Life's) Long-Term Care insurance policy.

How the Policy Works

A long-term care insurance policy provides payment for eligible long-term care services. Policyholders are eligible for benefits when they need substantial assistance with two or more activities of daily living (dressing, eating, continence, toileting, transferring, bathing), or they require substantial supervision because of a severe cognitive impairment. The policy can provide payment for services in a variety of locations depending on the policy benefits selected, including your home, adult day care facility, assisted living residences, hospices and nursing home facilities.

Inflation protection is a tool that helps your policy retain or even grow its value over time. Please note that the 5% Compound Inflation Protection Rider must be rejected before other forms of inflation protection can be offered.

Specific Policy Information

Please refer to the state-specific Outline of Coverage for more information about the policy features, limitations, exclusions and benefits available in your state. The policy language will dictate the actual policy benefits. The NAIC Shoppers Guide or state-specific shoppers guide contains important information about planning for long-term care expenses. Please take some time to review both the Outline of Coverage and Shoppers Guide.

Underwriting Information

Policy issue is subject to underwriting. New York Life has five long-term care underwriting rate classes. You may not qualify for the rate class shown in this proposal. Some rate classes have limited benefits available. A medical exam is required.

Potential Rate Increases

This policy is Guaranteed Renewable. This means that the policy will remain in force, subject to the terms of the policy and as long as you pay the premiums on time. If any premium is not paid in full by the premium due date, you will have a total of 65 days from the premium due date to make the required payment or the policy will lapse. Your rates cannot be increased due to your increasing age or declining health, but our rates may go up based on the experiences of all Insureds with a policy similar to yours in your state.

Multi-year premium comparisons included in this proposal are based on your current benefit selection choices and age at time of policy issue and do not reflect the possibility of future premium changes.

New policy rates are subject to increase at the discretion of the company, once the rates are submitted and accepted by the state Departments of Insurance.

Dividends

This product is participating. Dividends are not guaranteed and must be approved annually by the New York Life board of directors. New York Life reserves the right to amend the dividend structure.

Dividends are applied as a premium offset. Premiums are still required to keep the policy in force whether dividends are sufficient to offset them or not. The requirement to pay policy premium is not canceled, forgiven or waived by the use of dividends to pay premiums. The use of dividends to pay premiums is contingent upon current non-guaranteed factors remaining unchanged, which may or may not occur. The dividend illustration shows the continuation of the currently illustrated "non-guaranteed" elements which are not guaranteed and are based on assumptions which are subject to change by the Company. In the future, the actual non-guaranteed elements and results may be more or less favorable than those shown in the illustration.

The dividend illustration shows how your premium, represented on an annualized basis, can be affected by the application of a dividend. Your Gross Premium is the total premium you pay each year for your policy. The Dividend is the dividend currently illustrated for that policy year. The difference between these columns is your Net Premium, which is the premium amount you may pay out of pocket for that year, after the dividend has been applied to pay premium. The Cumulative Illustrated Dividend shows the total dividends, based on the currently illustrated scale that may be earned by the policy during its lifetime.

The Midpoint Dividend represents 50% of the Company's currently illustrated scale, and the Midpoint Net Premium shows the premium amount you may pay out of pocket for that year after the Midpoint Dividend has been applied to pay premium.

Tax-Qualification

THIS POLICY IS INTENDED TO BE A QUALIFIED LONG-TERM CARE INSURANCE CONTRACT AS DEFINED UNDER SECTION 7702B(b) OF THE INTERNAL REVENUE CODE OF 1986, as amended, and will be endorsed to conform to changes in that definition. You should consult with Your attorney, accountant or tax advisor regarding the tax implications of purchasing this long-term care insurance.

- For transportation costs, emergency or non-emergency, such as transfers from Your Home to a Physician's office or transfers provided by an ambulance service. Transportation expenses incurred by an individual who is currently providing care to You under the Home and Community-Based Care Benefit provisions of the Policy are also excluded;
- For Ancillary Services billed by a Facility that are more than the Maximum Monthly Benefit charges for Room and Board; or
- For services provided to or for the benefit of anyone other than You, except as expressly provided elsewhere in the Policy.

Specific Exclusions and Limitations

Maximum Monthly Benefit: The Maximum Monthly Benefit is the maximum dollar amount of Benefits We will pay for Qualified Long-Term Care services under the Policy and any attached riders in any Calendar Month.

Policy Lifetime Maximum: No additional Benefits are payable under the Policy once We have paid Benefits equal to the Policy Lifetime Maximum. If the Shared Pools Rider is part of Your Policy, some of the Benefits paid under Your Policy Lifetime Maximum may be paid for Your Partner's care as explained in the Shared Pools Rider.

Chronic Illness Certification: No Benefits are payable under the Policy for charges You incur on any day for which You are not certified as a Chronically Ill individual.

Care Not Included in a Plan of Care: No Benefits are payable under the Policy for charges You incur for care, services or equipment unless the care, services or equipment is included in Your current Plan of Care.
